ENORMOUS LOSSES

Sustained by the Russians on Thursday

16 000 CASUALTIES & PRISONERS

The Rival Forces Reported to Have Fought the Heaviest Battle of the War

NAVAL SORTIE REPULSED.

Tokio, June 25.—Admiral Togo reports that on Thursday last, June 23rd, one of his patrol boats discovered the battleship Peresviet and seven other vessels, accompanied by nine torpedo boat destroyers, near the entrance of Port Arthur harbor. The patrol boat warned him by wireless telegraphy and he immediately advanced with his entire fleet, except those engaged on special duty. The Admiral then discovered that the Russian fleet, which consisted of six battleships, five cruisers, and fourteen destroyers, evidently planned a dash southward by sundown. The Russians stopped outside the entrance to the harbor and after nightfall, a fleet of Japanese torpedo boat destroyers resolutely attacked the Russian ships and succeeded in torpedoing and sinking a battleship of the Peresviet type, and disabling the battleship Seydlitz. A cruiser of the Diana type was observed being towed into the harbor on Friday morning and it was evident that she had sustained serious damage. The Japanese ships sustained little damage. The torpedo boat destroyer Shiradumo was struck by a shell, which fell in the cabin and killed three men and wounded another. The Chidori, a vessel of the same class, was hit behind the engine room, but no one was hurt. Torpedo boats 64 and 66 were slightly damaged.

POPULACE UNDER ARMS.

Ta Tsch Kwa, (between Kai Chu and Hai Cheng) June 25.—The Japanese land forces are twelve miles from Port Arthur, the whole male population of which from the age of 15 upwards, is under arms. The women are assisting in the work of completing the defences.

TREMENDOUS RUSSIAN LOSSES.

Tien Tsin, June 27th.—Officers arriving at New Chwang from the front say that the battle fought on Thursday at Shantung about 40 miles east of Keping, was the hardest blow the Russians have yet received. The Muscovites lost according to these accounts 16,000 killed and wounded, missing and prisoners. That the Russian retreat did not turn into a rout was due to the dogged bravery of the men of the North Siberian rifle brigade under Gen. Kondratyevitch, who covered the flying troops, contesting every inch of the way.

FACE TO FACE.

Liao Yang, June 26th.—The armies of Generals Oku and Kuroki, aggregating at least six divisions are confronted by the huge forces of General Kurapalkin. The tension here is most acute at the approach of the most important battle of the war in which three times the number of troops engaged at Kiu Lin Cheng, Kiu Chow, and Yafangow, will take part. The proximity of the rainy season makes the battle unavoidable.

OKU'S ADVANCE.

St. Petersburg, June 26th.—Major Gen. Mitchenko, commander of the eastern Cossack brigade, according to reports received at the war office, dated yesterday, attacked the Japanese advance posts on the Su Yen Ta Tche Kiao road resulting in a sharp engagement in which artillery was brought up and the Japanese forward movement was arrested. On this road the Cossacks lost seven men killed and three officers and eleven men wounded. The position of Gen. Kuroki's men on the Su Yen Kai Chou road is unchanged. Gen. Oku's army continued to advance from Sen Chien travelling six miles per day and marching in order of battle evidently expecting momentarily attack from the Russians. Oku was about ten miles from Kai Chou yesterday.

A recent naval battle of Port Arthur on June 23rd. The only water ships of the Peresviet is the Pobeda, of the Diana the Pallada, and of the Nevasopol the Poltava. It transpires that the Emperor received news last night through what agency is a mystery, possibly from French sources in Tokyo.

Letters FROM A Son TO HIS Self-Made Father

By Charles Eustace Merriman

Harry Thurston Peck wrote in the New York American, Feb. 6:

"Fully as amusing as the book that suggested it."

"Readers of old Gorgon Graham's letters to his son will read with pure delight these neat replies, in which young Pierpont Graham matches his father's commercial philosophy with a merry philosophy of his own, mixes maxim with maxim and anecdote with anecdote, and generally succeeds in scoring off the old man in a most effective way. Mr. Merriman has shown himself to be quite a match for Mr. Lorimer, and the book which he has written is a worthy pendant to the one which called it forth."

"Indeed, unless the readers of the first book read the second also, they will have missed something which they will be very unlucky to have lost."

War Notes

Emperor Nicholas has received the following despatch from Vice-Admiral Saryeff, dated June 21st:

"On June 2nd our squadron, consisting of the cruiser Rosalia, flying the flag of Vice-Admiral Bezobrazoff, and the cruisers Gromobol and Rurik, left to assume the offensive against the maritime communication of the Japanese army. The squadron returned to port on June 20th.

"Its commander reports that on the morning of June 15th the squadron advanced from the north towards the strait of Shimonoseki. When within twenty miles of the strait, our ships perceived on the horizon two steamers, which they chased but could not overtake, owing to the great distance. At the same time a third was seen by the cruisers, which the Gromobol was ordered to capture. The ship proved to be the transport Idzumi. In spite of repeated orders to stop she refused to do so until she had been struck by several shells.

"She then stopped and the men began to jump overboard. The Gromobol then signalled for those on board to quit the ship, which was done, the crew leaving in two boats. These, together with those who had jumped overboard, and who were picked up by boats from the cruisers, were received on board the Gromobol. The Idzumi, which was of 3,000 tons, was then sunk by our guns.

"Among the 165 taken on board the Gromobol were fifteen officers.

"After the sinking of the transport two more steamers were sighted by the Gromobol and they were chased. They proved to be the transports Sado and Hitachi, each of 4,000 tons. In the former, in addition to military stores, were men of the telegraph corps and twelve officers and also pontoons. On the Hitachi were 100 troops, besides military stores. The Russia was ordered to capture the Sado and the Gromobol the Hitachi, which tried to escape.

"After several shots had been fired warning the Hitachi to stop, without effect, our guns opened fire and she stopped. Those on board, however, paid no attention to the signal to abandon the ship, and after two more shots had been fired they commenced to lower boats. The transport settled down very slowly, and consequently the Gromobol was ordered to expedite the sinking of her, which was soon accomplished.

"The Sado stopped after several shots had been fired across her bows and in accordance without signaling her boats, which were numerous, were lowered. Some of the boats were precipitately lowered and several capsized. The other boats, crowded with men, headed towards Yau and Iki islands which were visible in the distance. The weather was calm and the sea perfectly quiet.

"The Rurik was ordered to pick up the officers, soldiers and crew, but it was only possible to capture four foreigners engaged on the transport and twenty five officers. The Rurik did not leave the transport, and the Rurik had been ordered to torpedo and sink her. The transport not sinking at the first torpedo, another was fired which sank her. Our squadron then considering the matter ended, and in view of the growing darkness, proceeded on its cruise, a Japanese cruiser watching all the time.

"On the following day the Tsuru Rurik and our squadron stopped the British steamer Allanton. Her captain declared to the officers sent to examine her that he was proceeding from Muroran to Singapore with 6,000 tons of coal. Examination of the crew and the inspection of the ship's papers, and certain irregularities in the log, coupled with the fact that the steamer had previously conveyed contraband to the Japanese, led to doubt as to the neutrality of her cargo, and she was sent to Vladivostok under guard. There her case will be examined by privy court.

"No other ships were seen during the cruise.

"On board the Allanton was found a Japanese subject of the educated class. He was apparently one of the crew."

Wetaskiwin News

From the Times:

We wish to most emphatically contradict the report circulated by the Red Deer, Edmonton and Calgary exchanges, that Wetaskiwin has an imported battery. The Wetaskiwin team has the same battery as last season, namely Pittman and Goshua, who are both old timers here, but are fast enough to win out against the eastern salaried batteries brought in by Calgary, Red Deer and other towns in the Northern Alberta league.

The longest train that ever passed through Wetaskiwin, went north on Sunday evening. It had 51 flat cars, six freight cars and a passenger. The train, manned by a large crew, is now ballasting the C. & E. line. When this is completed, much faster time will be made on the run to Calgary.

Thursday morning of this week was the first anniversary of Wetaskiwin's big fire when $200,000 went up in smoke. Since that time, with one or two exceptions, the buildings burned have been replaced by larger and more substantial edifices than ever.

Prince Albert News

Advocate: These are busy days in the ship-yard in the east end, and a visit to that quarter at this time is most interesting.

Approaching the scene of activities, from Prince Albert, the first boat to come to view is that of Capt. Coates, the largest of the three. A gang of men, working like beavers, did the wide boat, finishing the woodwork, painting and placing the machinery, which arrived last week.

The next boat is the new Hudson's Bay Company's stern wheeler, which is somewhat further advanced than the "Alberta," and her boiler is on the ground, ready to be put in position, while a big force of engineers and mechanics are finishing up the fittings.

On the bank, not yet launched, but, like the others, receiving her machinery, is Capt. Deacon & Son's new screw tug, in an advanced state of completion, and ready to take the water any time.

The stage of the water in the river is now excellent for steamboating and it is neck and neck with the three boats which will get up steam for the trial trip first, each gang working with might and main for that object.

In the course of a week or two when these boats are added to Prince Albert's flotilla, the river front will present quite an industrious appearance, and open up an extensive trade both up and down the river, and together with the added convenience to the settlements along the banks, a remunerative and paying business is assured the enterprising owners of the craft.

Conservatives Back Mr. Fisher

A Montreal dispatch to the Toronto Star says:—

In this end of the country there appears to be little interest taken in the dismissal of Lord Dundonald. That was regarded as inevitable from the outset. Interest lies in the question, will this agitation lead to the disruption of the entire regiment, or will the Sweetburg squadron be transferred back to Broms County? This query is so important that Lord Dundonald is relegated to a second place. Interest in the new regiment is not a one-party affair. The people of Bedford district are pleased as a rule with the thought of having a cavalry regiment of their own, and would not want to see the organization fall through.

Local feeling sides with the Minister of Agriculture. The blame for the present trouble is not placed on him. It is safe to say he will not lose one vote either in Missisquoi or Broms for the stance he has taken, and there are many Conservatives who state that if this militia incident is made a party fight they will support Mr. Fisher.

How local feeling runs is best shown by the following opinions of leading Conservatives. Mr. J. A. Cameron, who is the leading Conservative worker in Adamsville, said: "The one fault I have to find with Mr. Fisher is that he did not interfere more. I have always opposed him politically, and expect to do so again, but in this case I am compelled to admit that he did nothing wrong, and any attempt to make political capital out of the incident in Broms would be a mistake. When the squadron was being organized in Broms, there was no politics mentioned. I was offered second in command. We didn't canvass the last until a few days ago, and we found there were four Liberals and three Conservatives. Mr. Fisher would have been justified in blocking the transfer of the squadron from Broms and Sweetburg, and if he had done so, this trouble over the family compact would not have arisen. That he tried to avoid unnecessary political friction is shown by the fact that he proposed a leading Conservative to take the place of Dr. Pickell."

Dr. Crothers, Stanbridge East: "I have been a life-long Conservative, but I am prepared to admit that Mr. Fisher's course was dictated by the best interests of the regiment. In any case, when the Conservatives were in power for nearly twenty years, the chief military appointments went to Conservatives, as a matter of course, and the Liberals stood their medicine well. We should not object if things went the other way for a while now. But Mr. Fisher has been scrupulously fair. He let five Conservative names pass while he knew they were strong opponents of his, and always had been. He was doing nothing amiss, and the Conservative press is making a mistake in attempting to make campaign material out of it."

May Have Known Too Much

A Seattle dispatch says: "The facts leading up to the shooting of Col. Edward Emerson, Jr., war correspondent of the New York World in the Far East, are related by R. L. Dunn, correspondent in Korea for an American weekly magazine, who has reached here."

Mr. Dunn made this statement after being informed that Col. Emerson was dead:

"Col. Emerson, as a military man, was well aware of the positions occupied by Russian soldiers. Some time ago he made the announcement that he intended to go through the Russian lines and work from that vantage point."

"When it came to the ears of the Japanese military authorities that Emerson intended to take this step, an officer approached another representative of Emerson's paper and informed him that if he took such a step the government could scarcely be responsible for his safety."

"I contemplated a move similar to that outlined by Emerson," said Mr. Dunn, "but the Japanese made it clear to me that it would not be wise for me to proceed."

"Emerson held papers, which would have carried him through the Russian lines in safety. In view of these I am inclined to think the real story of his death has not been learned."

Kamimura Criticized

The military correspondent of The Times severely criticizes the course of Admiral Kamimura with reference to the Vladivostok squadron. "The Japanese proceedings in respect to the Vladivostok cruisers," he says, "has been singularly unfortunate. Admiral Kamimura has twice allowed the enemy to slip through his fingers, effect considerable damage, and get off scot free. Considering the strong and fairly numerous division believed to be at his disposal, and the enhanced power of a superior navy accruing from the use of wireless telegraphy, the result is distinctly disappointing. When a navy has the enemy fast shut up in a harbor of refuge, there is only one good rule, and it is a mistake to avoid it, to board the lion in his den and never relax your grip. It has been by the tenacious adherence to this rule that Admiral Togo has practically destroyed the main part of the Russian Pacific squadron, and the neglect of this rule in the Sea of Japan has cost the Japanese these heavy losses they now deplore."

The New Woman

The Regina Daily Standard says: "All is not peace and quiet in the humble home of Walter Broley, of Yellow Grass. Walter has a spouse and at one time had fond dreams of 'love in a cottage' but alas, the good wife was not altogether agreeable that it should be love in a cottage. She is of the calibre that is known as the 'new woman,' and Walter knows it to his sorrow. The other day when things were not going just as the wife thought they should, she began to make her dear hubby do the washing, but hubby objected and endeavored to remonstrate with his life partner. She would not stand for this and informed Walter that she would put him out of business, and as he did not think his wife able to carry out her threat, he refused to do her bidding. At last losing all patience with her husband, she picked up the axe and proceeded to carry out her threat. Magistrate Urquhart intervened and settled the family quarrel by giving Mrs. Broley thirty days free tuition in the art of washing and the culinary work of the household."

Uses of Religion in War

A dispatch from Djik, Government of Tomsk, Asiatic Russia, says: The agitation among the Mongols inhabiting the Altai region is increasing over the appearance of the god Airol, who they believe will release them from a foreign yoke and create an independent kingdom. The Mongols are gathering in thousands in answer to the summons of men who are preparing themselves to be the apostles of the god Airol. These men are inspiring awe among the ignorant nomads by means of an alleged miracle carried out with the aid of electrical and pyrotechnical devices with which they are provided.

These so-called apostles preach the reincarnation of the god Airol and pretend to carry from him messages to the people, saying that he has not been happy since he left them two hundred years ago, coincident with the date of the Russian occupation of the country. They warn the Mongols to abstain from wearing clothing colored white or red—the Russian national colors—and to wear only blue and yellow, the national colors of Japan, and then to worship the sun and moon, which are the gods of Japan, and especially the overgod Burhan, who is the only true god of the gods. They also warn the inhabitants to discard all agricultural implements and to keep their arms in houses hidden in the mountains and elsewhere.

Many rich members of the Kal-muck tribe have taken up the propaganda, one of whom has sacrificed $3,000 and another $250 in honor of the god.

The apostles say that only the elect are eligible to the sect and that the house of any unworthy man who proclaims himself will be encircled by a rainbow and immediately collapse.

Reports from Irkutsk say that dis-

PROGRAM OF THE FAIR

Edmonton's big fair opens on Thursday of this week, and the appearance is now that it will eclipse all its predecessors in every line.

The entries already made far surpass those made for any exhibition before held here. Early last week they had reached the total number received three days before the opening of the gates, and on Saturday they more than doubled the number received up to the corresponding day last year. The increase is not confined to a few classes but is general and is due probably to the increased settlement and development of the district and the widening interest in the fair. The first horses to arrive from a distance to compete in the speed events came in yesterday. There were three carloads of them, numbering 25 all told. More are expected in tonight and when the entries for the events are all in it is expected that over 70 racers will be in the stables at the grounds.

JUDGES APPOINTED.

The following are the judges in the classes indicated at the fair.
Dogs—J. R. Turnbull.
Arts—Mrs. Green, P. C. Kidston.
School Exhibits—K. W. Mackenzie and R. H. Johnston.

ELIGIBILITY RULE ALTERED.

Calgary, June 24th, 1904.

W. H. Cooper, Esq.,
Clerk of the Course,
Industrial Exhibition, Edmonton,
Dear Sir:—With reference to yours of the 8th inst. respecting a change in the racing conditions for the forthcoming fair, I beg to state that at a meeting of the directors held yesterday, it was decided to allow horses entering for your race meeting to be eligible for the same class at the race meet here. As you are aware our racing program was published some time ago and it was, therefore, not thought advisable to publish this change in conditions. I should be much obliged, however, if you would have the kindness to bring this condition to the attention of those who enter for your exhibition.

Yours truly,

CHAS. W. PETERSON,
Manager.

The following program of the events is designed as a guide to those visiting the exhibition, to enable them to determine when any desired event is to come off and to enable strangers to follow the course of events without missing any of the features of the fair.

FIRST DAY, THURSDAY.

Parade of the children of the public and separate schools of Edmonton to the fair grounds, where all children in line will be admitted free. It is expected that from 800 to 1,000 children will be in the procession.

WABISCOW INDIANS

THREATEN A WOMAN

The Traders of the Far Northern Post Want a Police Detachment Stationed There

E. Williams and Colin Johnston, traders, of Wabiscow, came in on Thursday and A. Griffin of the Hudson's Bay Company's post there came in on Friday.

The traders at Wabiscow are asking to have a detachment of the N. W. M. P. stationed there. Owing to curious stories of wild men being in the woods the Indians refuse to go out on the chase. It is thought the presence of the police would allay their fears and possibly prevent destruction which would result if the hunt were neglected. The missionaries are also in favor of having the detachment established.

An Indian woman who achieved a reputation of being a witch, had recently to be protected for some time by the traders from the threats of the other Indians. The reputation originated in the morose disposition and peculiar manners of the woman, and for some time she was in considerable danger from the rest of the tribe.

The Anglican church which was burned last summer is being rebuilt. Ed. Williams is building a new residence and a warehouse.

Startling Evidence Given

Evidence of a startling nature, which doubtless will have an important bearing on the ultimate result of the coroner's inquiry into the General Slocum disaster, was forthcoming at the inquest held last week in New York.

Perhaps the most unexpected incident was the continued refusal to answer questions of Henry Lundberg, a United States steamboat inspector, who was supposed to have inspected the life-preservers and the hull of the ill-fated steamer. His refusal was based on the ground that an answer might tend to incriminate him and he relied on the advice of his counsel.

The coroner committed Lundberg to the House of Detention, but later accepted $500 bail for his reappearance which was satisfactory to the District Attorney. Second Pilot Weaver of the Slocum, testified that he had purchased the fire hose for that boat and showed that the price paid was 49 cents per foot, less 60 per cent, or 16 cents per foot net.

"Don't you know that you can't buy good fire hose for less than a dollar or a dollar and a half a foot?"

"I don't know anything about the price of hose," responded Weaver.

Weaver also declared that there had been no fire drill on the Slocum this year.

Daniel O'Neill, who, according to his sworn statement, had never worked on a boat until he was fired on the Slocum a short time ago, admitted that he became frightened after the fire had gained great headway and had jumped into a rowboat filled with people from the Slocum, capsizing it. Asked if he saved anyone, he said there were others there doing that and he was not an expert swimmer. He swam ashore himself, however.

O'Neill declared he never saw a fire drill on the boat.

Referring to the efforts made to put out the fire when it was discovered, O'Neill told of the burning of the steamer. When this happened, he said, he ran and got the rubber washing hose, but the coupling would not fit the standpipe.

Mrs C. L. Hall, bookkeeper for the Knickerbocker Steamboat Company, told of erasures she had made with acid on certain bills for life-preservers and the substitution of the name "General Slocum" for "Grand Republic." After various explanations had been made by Mrs Hall as to the reason for this, Mr. Garvin asked her to say when the erasures were made. The witness was uncertain as to the date, but denied they were made within a month. She used acid, she said, because that had been her custom.

The Assassination not Condemned

A London press dispatch says: Never has public opinion in Europe come nearer condemnation, if not open approval, of murder than in the case of the tragedy at Helsinki. Russia's crime against a helpless, liberty-loving people has brought the only form of protest within their power to raise. Full light has now been thrown on the personalities of the assassin and victim, and the deed stands out as the sacrificial act of a noble-minded, but misguided, patriot, who struck down a tyrannical oppressor, who was crushing out the national life of his people.

Eugene Schaumann was the son of one of the foremost men in Finland. General Schaumann for 25 years held the highest offices in the country and was governor of Vaasa, the chief military division, and remained senator until the manifesto suppressing the Finnish language drove him to resign in 1900. Eugene's mother was the daughter of the bishop of Borga. The assassin was educated at Helsinki University.

Governor Bobrikoff, on the other hand, was an intendant marinet, typical of Russia's ruling class. Even his own daughter exclaimed, when he was appointed governor general: "What have the Finlanders done that papa should be sent to govern them?" His policy was one of subjugation, tyranny and persecution. Everywhere there were Russian soldiers and police spies.

We hear of fresh plots against the Czar. There is probably little in them. There is no hostility against him personally and his death would avail nothing against the evils which thrive under him. It is beginning to be well understood that he is not the real oppressor of Russia. He is a weak man, and weakness is a crime in an emperor, but it is a crime for which he is not morally responsible. Tyranny, which is driving Russia heading to disaster, is the hydra-headed monster which assassination cannot exterminate. A few more blows like that at Helsinki might inspire it with terror, some revolting, but it is more profitable.

English condemnation of Schaumann's crime is entirely prefatory. Continental expressions are less restrained.

AMUSEMENTS

MY FRIEND FROM INDIA.

"My Friend from India" drew another good crowd to Robertson Hall on Saturday evening.

As on Friday evening the Apollo orchestra supplied the music, their overtures receiving frequent and well deserved applause.

The presentation of the comedy was even better than on the previous evening.

As Erastus Underholt, W. F. McNamara had a part offering good opportunities for fun making of which he made splendid use. His representation of the wealthy retired hog dealer was true to life.

Miss J. Maloney as Gertrude was a favorite with the audience. Her conception and presentation of the western girl among the conventionalities of the east touched a popular chord and won frequent applause for her.

Miss K. Maloney represented the character of the dignified fiancée of Charles in an intelligent and able manner.

Miss Macdonald as Mrs. Arabella Street had a very humorous part of which she made the most.

Miss Lottie Manp played the role of Bernice, the aspiring daughter of Erastus Underholt, and Miss Edith Proctor that of the German servant very rapidly.

As Charles, Mr. A. Edwards had one of the central roles of the play, a great deal of the humor of the play hanging on the serious view Charles takes of affairs. Mr. Edwards' presentation was very apt and exhibited a correct interpretation of this part.

Mr. Dawson was one of the reading fun makers, his personation of the Rev. Jas. Tweedie bringing down the house on both occasions.

Mr. Kildon played "Tom Valentine" and B. Russell "Jennings."

It is understood that the company will put on the play at Wetaskiwin at an early date.

THE BEGGAR PRINCE.

The Beggar Prince Comed Opera Co. open a week's engagement in the rink theatre this evening with "Le Mas-telle" or "The Beggar Prince."

The company have been touring the West for some time, having had a run of nine nights in the Winnipeg theatre. They are spoken of very highly by the western press and large crowds will doubtless turn out to hear them.

The rink has been specially staged and arranged for the occasion and is now one of the finest play houses in the West.

How Tellus was Fought

General Oku, the victor of the battle of Nanchan Hill, on May 26th, fought and won the battle of Tellus, Vafangow, according to the Russian designation, on June 15th.

There is a strong similarity between the two fights. At Tellus the Japanese had to drive the Russians from the two hills, while at Nanchan the enemy occupied one hill. The Russians' position at Tellus was superior to that of the Japanese and equalized the advantage of the Japanese in having a larger force. The Russian position extended from east to west, and crossed the narrow valley through which runs the Foochow river and the railway.

From other positions on the right and left in the high hills which flank this valley, Gen. Oku drove the Russians down into the valley. The Japanese general carried first the enemy's right and then his left. The fight at the left of his line was the most desperate of the day. The Russians held this position with desperate determination and only fled when they were almost completely enveloped. The field had been disputed all day and when the Japanese reached it 600 of the enemy's dead were found there.

General Oku started from a line marked by the Paludon and the Tassa River on June 15th. The following day the several advancing columns were in touch seven and one-half miles south of Tellus.

The Russian forces then held a line between Tafangshan and Lung-wangta. The entire Japanese line advanced and at three o'clock in the afternoon the Japanese artillery opened fire. The Russians had ninety-eight guns and they replied with spirit until darkness put an end to the artillery duel. During the night of the 14th two of the Japanese columns seized an advanced position on two hills.

When the dawn of the 15th broke, the field of battle was obscured by fog, but the artillery opened early. A portion of the Japanese middle column advanced to the north side of a bend in the Foochow River, where the men were greatly exposed to the enemy's fire, but the force of infantry and artillery relieved them. At 9.30 o'clock this relieving force seized a vantage point, and in co-operation with the middle column drove the Russians from Tafangshan. The Russian batteries posted in two different points poured a heavy fire into these forces, but in spite of this shelling, the middle column and the men who were sent forward to relieve the force at the bend in the Foochow River climbed the heights in front of them and quickly mastered the situation.

In the meantime the Japanese right was suffering. The Russian left had been reinforced until their numbers were greater than the opposing Japanese. General Oku was twice forced to order up the infantry reserves. The Russians made a series of desperate counter attacks, and when the situation was most critical, the Japanese cavalry swung around the Russian left and struck the enemy on the flank. At this time additional Russian reinforcements had arrived and the Russians held their position with dogged determination until their front and both flanks were under fire. Then they broke and fled. The Japanese cavalry pursued the enemy for a short time, but the roughness of the country made it necessary soon to abandon the pursuit. The Japanese left wing succeeded in ambushing 900 Russian infantrymen who were discovered retreating toward Wuchiatun. They sent two companies of infantry and one battery of artillery to a hill east of Hongchiatun and the Russians were completely trapped. Many of the enemy at this point were killed or wounded.

In his report General Oku says the Russians began the fight with twenty-five battalions of infantry, seventeen squadrons of cavalry and ninety-eight guns. They were reinforced several times, but the number of reinforcements is not known.

Members from the St. Jean Baptiste Societies from all parts of the district gathered at Lacombe on Saturday in large numbers for the annual celebration. Though the bad roads probably prevented many attending there was a good crowd and the programme for the day was carried out successfully. The Edmonton Society turned out in large numbers and representatives were present from St. Albert, Morinville and Beaumont.

Speeches were delivered by Messrs. B. Prince, L. J. A. Lambert, W. Garlick, O. St. Germain, O. Tassier, Rev. Father Gunder, Dr. Billa, A. C. Le Riviere. The speeches were appropriate to the occasion and were instructive and inspiring to those present.

Musical was furnished during the day by the St. Albert brass band.

The grand banquet was held in the open air in a grove near the church. After the banquet "Les Anciens Canadiens" was performed in the church.

Excavating for the new college building.

The board of Alberta College have finally decided to erect the new residence building in the rear of McDougall church and a gang of men with teams began excavation work this morning.

Seen this morning regarding the decision to abandon the proposed site on the hillside on First street. Principal Riddell said the Board were perfectly sincere in their statements of intention to build on the hillside as they had no other site in their own name. The missionary society had given them the former site but the land north of College avenue belongs to McDougall church. The Board of the church kindly permitted them to build on the rear of their property and the offer was thankfully accepted. The new building will be a frame structure three stories in height, with a basement the full size. Residence accommodation will be made for 40 students, with the necessary class rooms. The cost will be about $16,000.

The first of a long list of contributors was received on Saturday evening. It was $600 from Mrs. H. H. of Burlington, Ont.

THE CHURCHES

Rev. Prof. Riddell of Alberta College, preached morning and evening in the Baptist church yesterday to large audiences.

Rev. G. C. F. of Fort Saskatchewan preached at the morning and evening services in All Saints church yesterday.

All St. Joseph's church a first communion service for children was held at 8 a.m. yesterday. At 10.30 High Mass was sung and a sermon on the significance of the celebration of St. Jean Baptiste's day delivered by Father Jan. A special children's service was held at 2.30 p.m.

The Masses attended service last evening at the Methodist church. There were about seventy five brethren in the choir and the service was kept away by the uncertain state of the weather. The service was opened by a prayer, followed by a reading of the scriptures by the male quartette. Rev. C. H. Muesel was the preacher of the evening. His sermon was taken from the seventh chapter of first Kings and was built on the thoughts of the beauty and strength of the temple and the spirit of the temple in which it had been erected. The principles of Free Masonry to said were the principles of perfect manhood. Mr. McLeod sang a solo at the conclusion of the sermon. The members on returning to the hall sang a vote of thanks to Rev. Muesel for his inspiring sermon and to the choir of the church for the splendid music provided.

The Rev. G. H. Webb, formerly of Strathcona, on Sunday was formally inducted by Archbishop Webb, acting for the Bishop of Calgary into the charge of St. John's, Pincher Creek. The bishop made an eloquent address on the relations of clergy and laity.

At the Presbyterian Alliance conference at Liverpool on June 28, three hundred and fifty delegates will represent 90 churches, 240 synods, 1,000 Presbyteries, 700 ministers, 130,000 elders and 5,000,000 members. Among the prominent speakers is Rev. Principal Caven, Toronto, the president.

Mr. Brown, representing Joseph Tetley & Co., the big tea firm of London, England, has presented the Edmonton cricket club with a valuable cricket bat to be given to the member making the best batting average during the present season. The bat will be on exhibition in a few days at Hallier and Aldridge.

Saskatoon Times: Mr. Ingles, of the office of Willis Chipman, Toronto, arrived in town a few days ago to take the job of the station. Mr. Chipman has secured the contract for getting out specifications for waterworks and sewerage systems for Prince Albert. When completed the specifications and plans will be filed at the Town Clerk's office.

Visitors to the hay market complain bitterly of the want of drinking water for man and beast. In these warm days after a long journey along dusty roads, both bipeds and quadrupeds are apt to feel thirsty. When the outward bound journey is ended a cool draught of water would prove a godsend; but the hay market has none to offer these thirsty ones.

Hon. Mr. Pulver, of the Northwest government, has written the railway commission in regard to the prevention of fires from railway engines. The commission will issue notices to railways in the Northwest, showing that they are liable to damages for all fires caused by engines, whether through negligence or otherwise, and asking them to use all precautions, by fire guards and otherwise, to prevent fires.

Free Press: The general appearance of the west now presents an inspiring scene. The crop outlook was never brighter than any previous year, and the grain blades are literally springing from the ground, so rapid is the growth. The result is a feeling of commercial buoyancy and the farmers particularly are jubilant. Of course it is yet early and perhaps unwise to begin crop estimate predictions; but there is certainly every reason to believe that 1904 will be the "best yet" in the line of a bumper yield.

The career of a would-be Jack Hunter was terminated in short order last night by a plucky young woman and Constable Tidbury. The young lady was assaulted on Jasper avenue by a young man and instead of losing her head she stood up the stranger, found the constable and had him placed under arrest. He appeared in police court this morning and was fined $20 and costs, with the option of two months in the barracks at the Fort. He chose the latter and will go down today. He gave his name as A. Nicolls.

AMUSEMENTS

MY FRIEND FROM INDIA.

"My Friend from India" drew a large crowd to Robertson Hall last evening, who for about three hours were kept in roars of laughter at the social aspirations and unusual adventures of the Underhill family.

The play represents the attempts of a wealthy family from Kansas City to get into New York society. Mr. Underhill has made money out of hogs and wants to have his children mingle with the upper ten. For this purpose he has spent money and devised schemes to win money.

who appears to be making good headway in the manner of the east wakens one morning to find that he has brought some strange gentleman home with him. Not wishing to have his father suspect that he has been out for the evening, Charles introduces the gentleman as an Indian Fundit, deeply learned in the mysteries of the East.

The old gentleman thinks he sees a way to climb into society with the assistance of the fundit, and gets up a reception to exhibit the seer. But the children are afraid the antics of their father at this reception will put a finish to their chances of society and the old gentleman is persuaded that he has been drunk and the story ends by the announcement of Underhill that he will return to good old Kansas City. There is the inevitable two story-two of them and a jangling affair to help matters along, and all these troubles are smoothed out in the old gentleman's final blessing.

Space forbids a lengthy criticism of the play, which, judging from the appreciation of the audience, is not needed.

The play will be repeated in Robertson Hall to-night when another large crowd will doubtless be present.

THE BEGGAR PRINCE.

Concerning the Beggar Prince Opera Co., who open a weeks engagement in the R. C. on Monday evening the Regina Standard says:

"Regina theatre goers had a real treat in store for them at the hall last night when P. A. Wade's company under the management of C. P. Walker which in new touring the west, presented "The Beggar Prince." It was a good two hours of mirth and music. The singing was excellent especially that of Mr. Walters and Miss Irene Palmer in duet. The comedy was a happy one. It was straight, clean fun from start to finish, and was made doubly taking by the natural way in which the players carried it. The "gent deal," in the last act was excellent. The soda biscuits for cards and the plates, cups and butter dishes, etc., for chips, brought down the house.

F. A. Wade as "The Beggar Prince" is an artist in himself in everything from the make-up of his costume to the presentation of his part, and in this he had an able assistant in Mr. P. C. Felt, who took the role of "Lord High Chamberlain" to the "Beggar Prince." When those two got on the stage together there was certainly something doing, and they contributed in no small way to the proper enjoyment of the evening.

"Another pair who are deserving of special mention are P. Walters, "Pippo" and Irene Palmer as the Musette. Their singing together in the first and last acts was the occasion for a large encore.

"Taken as a whole, this company is about the best that ever came this way. They received a continued encore especially in the singing and when a company gets an encore in Regina, they may know that it is genuine. For the people of this city will certainly let them know if they are not up to the standard."
